S$1,000 Grant Vendors: What We Found

Based on our research, here are the vendors we've identified that are offering or promoting the S$1,000 GST InvoiceNow Transition Grant, and how each positions it:

ABSS and Financio — Direct S$1,000 Competitors

ABSS and Financio are both already selling directly against the S$1,000 GST InvoiceNow Transition Grant, with their packages and pricing published on their own websites. ABSS offers Premier Connect at S$998 one-time (accounting, inventory, and payroll for up to 3 employees, 3 user seats), while Financio prices its grant-eligible package at S$220–330/yr depending on tier, though the grant only applies to their Accounting sign-up, not payroll. Neither vendor is on the official FOC (Free-of-Charge) list, they've never offered a free InvoiceNow option, so for them the grant is simply a way to subsidize a paid product they were already selling.

AutoCount — Running Both FOC and the Grant

AutoCount is one of the 13 vendors on the official FOC list, so it can still give customers InvoiceNow for free through 31 March 2031.
At the same time, AutoCount is also promoting the S$1,000 grant, positioning it as an option for customers who'd rather pay for a plan than stay on the free tier, though AutoCount hasn't published which specific package or price the grant applies to on that paid path. In effect, AutoCount is running both offers side by side: free forever (FOC) for those who want it, or a paid-and-reimbursed route for those chasing the grant.

sg.abssasia.com/pricing

WHERE NETIQUETTE WINS

✓ Payroll scale up to 50 employees vs ABSS's 3

✓ Inventory depth - batch, expiry & multi-location tracking vs ABSS's basic stock tracking

✓ Longer runway locked in to 2031 vs ABSS's 2030

WHERE ABSS IS AHEAD

- A More seats - 3 users included vs Netiquette's 2
- A Renewal clarity - ABSS states its exact post-lock-in price (S$499/yr); Netiquette's post-2031 pricing is stillundecided

? Users not stated by Financio; no seat count published financio.co/sg/gst-invoicenow-transition-grant

WHERE NETIQUETTE WINS

- Full suite - accounting, invoicing & payroll in one package vs Financio's accounting-only grant package
- Unlimited Invoice Now no transaction cap vs Financio Essentials' 20 invoices/month limit
- Payroll included - up to 50 employees vs none in either Financio tier
- Inventory depth - full location, batch, expiry & matrix tracking vs Financio Essentials' single location
- Tax filing automation - automated GST F5 & Form C-S filing built in

WHERE FINANCIO IS AHEAD

- A Lower entry price - Essentials from S$220/yr vs Netiquette's S$1,000 one-time
- A Tiered flexibility customers can start cheap and upgrade to Premier as they grow
- A Unclear - Financio doesn't publish a seat count, so it's unconfirmed whether it under- or over-cuts Netiquette's 2 users

Netiquette S$1K Package vs AutoCount

AutoCount still offers FOC through 2031 how does our paid offering compare to both of their paths?

• AutoCount - FOC

S$O

Free, 1 Apr 2025 - 31 Mar 2031

- Accounting (Basic tier) + Complete Stock (inventory) + E-Invoicing/InvoiceNow
- Users - 1 regular + 1 accountant (≈2 users,same as us)
- No transaction/invoice limit

Excludes payroll, multi-currency, budget/advanced reports, project mgmt

• AutoCount – S$1,000 Route

Unknown

No dedicated grant bundle found on their site

- A Best guess - any paid Accounting plan (not FOC) likely qualifies for the flat S$1,000 reimbursement
- Payroll separate product, free <3 staff, S$5/mo per head beyond (regular rate)

autocount post about autocount 1k grant

AutoCount customers can stay on free FOC with no grant, or pay for any plan to access the same S$1,000 grant Netiquette is built around but AutoCount has not published which plan or price that applies to.
